Description: The Full-Service Community Schools program encourages coordination of academic, social, and health services through partnerships between public elementary and secondary schools; the schools' local educational agencies; and community-based organizations, nonprofit organizations, and other public or private entities. The purpose of this collaborations to provide comprehensive academic, social, and health services for students, students' family members, and community members that will result in improved educational outcomes for children. The Full-Service Community Schools program is a "place-based" program that can leverage investments by focusing resources in targeted places, drawing on the compounding effects of well-coordinated actions. Place-based approaches can also streamline otherwise redundant and disconnected programs. Refer to
